Blink and Glow (Available for PRE-ORDER)

Written by Raven Howell
Illustrated by Ann Pilicer

Summary

Lilly and Leo think it's super to catch fireflies and salamanders - and even more exciting as they plan to bring their glowing nature finds to show and tell the next day.

That is, until Grandma's words of wisdom, guiding the children to observe the free-flying luna moth, teaches them respect for the freedom and light of the beautiful natural life surrounding them.

Blink and Glow is a unique story with a gentle, thought-provoking message about considerations towards freedom and respect for nature.

At the pond, Lilly spots a glowing light on the soft earth—a salamander squirms by a rock. Lilly pllops it into her glass jar.

"See the luna moth!" she asks, pointing towards the garden. "It has the same glow and reflective light as both a firefly and a salamander."

No School, My Rules! (Available for PRE-ORDER)

Written by Stephanie Henson
Illustrated by Mai Tran

Summary

“No School, My Rules!” is an imaginative and engaging story that takes readers on a delightful journey through the eyes of a child who questions the need for school. With playful comparisons to the effortless lives of birds, sandcastles, and even trees, this tale humorously explores the idea of a world without school.

As the child contemplates the freedom of these entities, she ultimately discovers the deeper significance of education. This charming narrative not only captivates with its creativity but also imparts a meaningful lesson about the importance of school in shaping a confident and independent future.

Isaac and the Boulder

Written by Jo-Ann Scranton

Illustrated by Mai Tran

Summary

A new-age story of grit and perseverance, with a wild twist ending.

One day, Isaac was walking to the beach, but a boulder was blocking his way! Well-intentioned, Isaac tries to set things right and help the boulder return home... if he can!

ISAAC AND THE BOULDER is a warm-hearted, vibrantly illustrated children's picture book highlighting the importance of determination and never giving up. This book is more than a story; it's an invitation to embrace challenges and celebrate the journey, whether big or small.

5-Star Amazon Review:

"My kids don't often sit still for stories(2 & 4) but they were both sucked into Isaac from start to finish. They were on the edge of their seats waiting to see if Isaac would conquer the boulder in his path, then the end broke the tension and they both laughed and repeated what happened. I love when something is silly and it translates for the kids without explanation."

A Morning With Blueburry

Written by Jon Seymour
Illustrated by Jon Seymour

Summary

This monochrome children’s story begins as a muffin named Blueburry takes a stroll on the kitchen counter looking for a tasty treat for breakfast. A bowl of icing would be perfect, but it’s on a table that’s some “one thousand muffin-meters away.” Blueburry’s thwarted efforts to reach the table include an unfortunate balloon incident, a rope made of soggy spaghetti, and a too-powerful slingshot crafted from kitchen tools. Encouraged by his kitchen counter friends—a bowl of fruit, a loaf of bread, and a juice box—Blueburry “hike[s] up his muffin liner,” keeps trying, and turns failure into unexpected success.
